Shelley Wilson is a shareholder in the St. Louis office of MVP Law. She has been practicing law since 1999 in both Missouri and Illinois. Shelley also leads the MVP Mentoring Program.

Shelley defends all types of workers' compensation claims, ranging from soft tissue injuries to permanent total disability cases. She has tried and argued cases before the Missouri Division of Workers' Compensation, the Labor and Industrial Relations Commission, the Missouri Court of Appeals, the Illinois Workers' Compensation Commission, and the Illinois Court of Appeals.

Shelley is a regular featured speaker on topics related to Missouri and Illinois workers' compensation law. She frequently counsels employers, human resource representatives, safety coordinators, and insurance carriers on the effective prevention and handling of work injuries and reducing the costs associated with workplace accidents.

She has two sons: her oldest attends Mizzou and her youngest is a junior in high school. Shelley enjoys cheering for all things Illini and Mizzou.
